Gridiron hijinx

Defence ruled the day on the Base gridiron as BComd LCol Stephen Joudrey and his charges played flag football as part of sports day. The players took the game seriously, challenging the quarterback (right) on a blitz; tackling a receiver on a long bomb throw (above); or pulling more than a flag (below) after running an opponent down. This contest ended in a 6-6 stalemate.

Spartans prevail 13-7 over Gophers

Shilo Stag

Maj Reg Sharpe scored a 40-yard touchdown earlier in the day when the Base held an afternoon sports day featuring flag football.

Maj Sharpe and his teammates battled to a 6-6 draw, one of two games played on the Base football field that afternoon. A few hours later, Brandon's Neelin Spartans used the same gridiron to post a 13-7 triumph over the Winnipeg-based Garden City Gophers.

The Winnipeg High School Football League's Kas Vidruk AA division tilt was played at CFB Shilo because the field at Neelin is being groomed for use in the 2014 season, with new turf and a recently built press box.

NEXT HOME GAMES

Oct. 11 vs Moose Jaw

Oct. 12 vs Saskatoon

Oct. 19 vs Medicine Hat

All games 7:30 p.m.

For Tickets Call 726-3555 or Visit Wheatkings.com

The game featured CFB Shilo's Nick Ukleja, a senior who plays on both sides of the ball, and recorded two sacks for the Spartans during the victory.

Neelin teammate Dustyn Lamont scored a one-yard touchdown, and finished with 83 yards rushing. The other major was scored by Brock Hiltner, who crossed the goal-line after a three-yard run. He tallied 73 rushing yards.

With the win, the Spartans improved to 3-1, while the Gophers dropped to an identical 3-1 record.

The Spartans play another game on the Base Oct. 10, with kickoff at 4 p.m. Spectators are welcome to cheer on Ukleja and his teammates.

Reinstate divisional structure LFWA is now 3 Cdn Div

Fraser Logan Special

As part of the Government of Canada's commitment to restoring the Canadian Army's heritage, earlier this summer then Minister of National Defence Peter MacKay announced that all Land Force Areas will reinstate the divisional structure complete with historical identifiers.

These restorations are the next step in the phased approach that began in August 2011, when the historical name of the Canadian Army was restored.

Although organizational structures have remained unchanged, the area of operation known as Land Force Western Area (LFWA) is now Third Canadian Division.

All subordinate units with LFWA in its name now include Third Canadian Division. The accepted abbreviation is 3 Cdn Div.

For example: LFWA Training Centre is now 3rd Canadian Division Training Centre, or 3 Cdn Div TC.

Land Force Central Area is now 4th Canadian Division, Land Force Quebec Area is now 2nd Canadian Division, and finally, Land Force Atlantic Area is now 5th Canadian Division.

All Joint Task Force names will remain the same.

It's important for all of military members to understand the significance of reinstating the divisional structure.

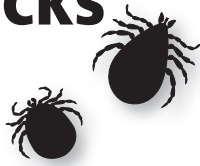

Symbols play a significant role in military culture, where those in uniform take a great deal of pride in those icons that connect to their history.

This divisional name change celebrates and encourages that connection.

Fraser Logan is media operations officer for 3 Cdn Div HQ

Watch out for deer ticks

Lyme disease is caused by a bacterial infection that people can get from the bite of an infected blacklegged (deer) tick.

Manitobans can reduce contact with deer ticks by avoiding wooded or forested habitat, wearing long pants and a long-sleeved shirt, tucking in clothing, using an appropriate repellent (it should state 'for use against ticks' on the product label), looking for and removing ticks as soon as possible.

For more information about Lyme disease, its symptoms and how to prevent it, visit our website at www.manitoba.ca/health/lyme/

You can help

You can help in the study of Lyme disease in Manitoba by collecting and submitting deer ticks for research purposes:

- Deer ticks are smaller than the more common wood tick. Unlike wood ticks, they do not have white markings on their bodies.
- If you find a deer tick, remove it slowly from skin or clothing using tweezers and steady pressure; avoid twisting. Cleanse area with soap and water or a disinfectant.
- Place the tick in a small, crush-proof container (for example, a pill bottle) with a piece of slightly damp paper towel (to help keep the tick alive).
- Firmly tape the lid shut.
- Check the pictures and additional information on the website to determine if your tick might be a deer tick.
- Hand-deliver or mail the sample to the address below. If mailing, place the container in a sealed plastic bag then in a cardboard box labeled: RESEARCH SPECIMENS – FRAGILE – HANDLE WITH CARE
- Include your name, telephone number, email address and information about where, when and on whom (e.g. a dog, a person) the tick was found. Deliver or mail to:

Visitors offer kudos for 'quaint' Base

After three months "in the chair" as the Base Commander, I wanted to take the time to offer a few comments on what I have noted — and learned — about the Shilo community.

I also wanted to take this opportunity to pass along some of the issues I have been dealing with and a few highlights as we move further into the fall.

A few short weeks ago, CFB Shilo was the site of events commemorating the 20th anniversary of 2PPCLI's involvement in the Battle of Medak Pocket.

During these events, the Base RSM and I were personally engaged in conversations with visiting VIPs — both military and political — who made specific comment about how this Base and the area in and around the RHUs was "well maintained" and "quaint."

The theme: This looks like a great place to live! I attribute such comments directly to the efforts of the residents, Shilo Community Council, the units across the Base, the CE Branch, as well as many others who take pride in "the curbside appeal" of the community of Shilo.

For those of us who have either lived here for many years or who have had the good fortune of returning to Shilo, we know this is something that takes time.

Additionally, this is not due to the efforts of only one or two people during one posting. This is the result of the "body of work" of many people, and many organizations, over multiple years.

I have learned that my role in this is to be part of that collective effort. We will continue to work with what we have and support ongoing improvements to the community as a whole.

During these three months, I have come to realize there are a number of issues that need to be addressed. The reality is that many of these can be best described as challenges.

Some are challenges in the way that money is doled out for programs and projects. While this is certainly true of the day-to-day business in the military operations of Base Shilo, this will also be evident in things like this year's version of the Community Haunted House — taking place in the early evenings Oct. 29 and 30 in building L25.

It will be a bit more to organize than in years past, however, it will be larger and offer more for the young kids — and bigger kids — during the Hallowe'en-themed events planned in Shilo.

This is certainly worth the extra investment.

Other challenges have necessitated my direct engagement in setting policy or making decisions. Sometimes this is in response to necessary adjustments to the rules and regulations that govern how this community functions.

An example of this can be seen in The Military Police Notebook section of this paper. In the future, there may be other changes to how we do things and how the Base is best able to provide support in Shilo.

Bear in mind that such changes are always aimed at trying to improve our community.

As the fallen leaves collecting on our lawns signal we are now well into the fall period, I would like to take this opportunity to highlight some activities occurring during the next few weeks.

The Base Shilo United Way campaign is underway.

It should be noted with pride that Base Shilo — which includes the military families and the civilians on Base — is the single largest contributor to the West-Man United Way Campaign.

This has been true for the past few years and I anticipate this will be the case again this year.

The Shilo Community Council and the Community Recreation Association have partnered with CANEX, with support from the Base, to organize a number of family-oriented Hallowe'en events later in the month.

The family pumpkin carving event at CANEX Oct. 27 as well as the Community Haunted House are only some of these events.

Likewise, one cannot overlook the impact of events like the MFRC's spaghetti dinner held Sept. 28; or the excitement felt — and exhibited — by Shilo's minor hockey players with the news that the ice is back in Gunner Arena.

For me, these are all indicative of the efforts of many groups to enhance the feeling of community here in Shilo. Well done!

And thank-you to all who have taken that extra step to ensure that CFB Shilo continues to be so "quaint."

Organized by the Friends of Camp Hughes committee, there was a good turnout for the historic venue's heritage day held Oct. 6. Visitors had plenty of interactive activities out on the training grounds that were a hive of activity back in 1916. At the time it was the second largest city in Manitoba, with a population of 28,000 people. Visitors learned about the trenches up close, including a mock charge on a German line, with re-enactors in period costumes and carrying Ross rifles.

Training exercise

Usually held in the cold of winter, EX Limber Gunner was moved to early fall this year. 1RCHA was out in the field training the past two weeks honing their skills with the M777. The Stag's Jillian Driessen spent the day with B Bty, observing how the soldiers interacted and worked as a cohesive unit to take out the "enemy" during mock exercises. Up next for the field is EX Kapyong Fury for 2PPCLI.

A Second World War vintage Taylorcraft Auster Mark V took to the skies for one last flight, only this time as cargo.

The Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF) and the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery (RCA) joined forces to bring an important part of Canada's military history to Canadian soil, echoing a storied past.

"We really wanted to involve the RCAF because this is most certainly a shared heritage," said Marc George, director of the RCA Museum. "The whole way it is being brought back is a perfect symbol of the way it operated during the Second World War."

En route back from a mission in Italy, a Hercules met the Auster Mark V at Royal Air Force Base Brize Norton where it was carefully loaded by RCAF traffic technicians for its final flight over the Atlantic Ocean Sept. 30 to CFB Trenton, Ont.

To complete the journey, the Auster Mark V will be loaded in a CAF transport truck for delivery to CFB Shilo and its final home at the RCA Museum.

"It is important to bring this artifact home where it belongs," said George. "It is satisfying to ensure this aircraft is going to be preserved and will be publicly accessible for future generations of Canadians."

During the Second World War, this Auster Mark V aircraft was flown in action by Canadian Gunner Officers from 665 Air Observation Post Squadron (AOP) over Northwest Europe.

The aircraft in AOP squadrons were maintained by RCAF technicians. The Auster Mark V is a high-wing, single-engine, tail-dragger, fabric-covered monoplane, built during the Second World War.

Taking off from grass landing strips, the Auster Mark V flew from various locations behind the front. They flew over the front lines, found targets, conducted reconnaissance missions, provided VIP transport, assisted road moves with traffic control and route reconnaissance.

The aircraft's principal duty was to observe targets that could not be seen from ground and to direct artillery fire onto those targets by radio.

While acquiring a L19 observation and forward air control aircraft from CFB Petawawa, George was made aware of the Auster Mark V and its owner, Karl Edmondson, an aviation enthusiast and aviation archaeologist, who displayed the aircraft at air shows across England. For the past eight years, Edmondson has been taking the Auster to 1940s shows across Northern England and Scotland. As part of the 1940s shows, the Auster was involved in re-enactments or living history, profiled with other artefacts, including radios, telephones, motor bikes, and forward observation posts.

From 1947 to the late 1960s, the Auster was used by Air Services Training in the South of England and in Perth, Scotland. In the late 1960s, it was rescued and restored by the Air Preservation Society of Scotland, who featured the aircraft at the East Fortune Airfield Museum of Flight. When asked about the Auster's last flight to Canada, Edmondson stated: "It couldn't go to a better home."

The Auster Mark V will be on temporary display at the RCA Museum in February and March 2014. With the recent acquisition of this vintage aircraft, the RCA Museum is planning to eventually install a permanent Flying Gunners' exhibit of 2,500 square feet to include artefacts dating from the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War, to the recent war in Afghanistan.

"The museum is a key component of our public outreach and education efforts," said BComd LCol Stephen Joudrey, who is also Commander Home Station Royal Canadian Artillery. "It attracts thousands of visitors each year who leave with a better understanding of Canadian Forces Base Shilo, the Canadian [Armed] Forces, and this country's history."

"We are effectively bringing home a Canadian combat veteran," added George. "There isn't a more powerful way to connect with what our soldiers have done than to see the artefacts that they used; visitors will be able to get face to face with an aircraft flown in action by Canadians in World War Two."

With its wings off, the Taylorcraft Auster Mark V was loaded into a Hercules for the trip to Canada.

Base speed limits changing back to 50

Several changes to traffic and parking control are coming into effect Oct. 14 across CFB Shilo.

The movement of all traffic, whether vehicles, bicycles, pedestrians or other means is regulated by three primary documents: Manitoba Highway Traffic Act, Government Property Traffic Regulations and CFB Shilo's Base Standing Order 8. • Speed Limit Changes — Patricia Road will be signed at 50 km/h for its entire length. Royal Avenue will be signed at 50 km/h for its length, with a 30 km/h zone between St. Barbara Avenue and Notre Dame Avenue because of high pedestrian traffic and proximity to the schools and MFRC. • Parking Changes — All parking is prohibited on Royal Avenue to ensure access to the bicycle lane. Parking continues to be prohibited on roadsides throughout the residential housing area from Nov. 1 to April 30 to allow effective snow and ice control.

Any vehicle on CFB Shilo must be insured. Storage insurance is acceptable for vehicles which are not being driven for a reasonable period. • Winter Storage of Recreational Vehicles — There is no change to the existing requirements for trailers and recreational vehicles to be moved out of the residential housing area over the winter period.

CANADIAN MP The Military Police NOTEBOOK

Storage is available at no cost in the "dust bowl" located near the golf course. To register contact the PSP front desk at General Strange Hall (GSH), local 3889, during weekday working hours. • Bicycle Lanes — The bicycle lane on Royal Avenue will be maintained and signed. As we transition into the spring of 2014, the bicycle lane on Patricia Road will be removed.

Bicycle operation is still authorized on all roads on the Base and residential housing areas of CFB Shilo. Helmets must be worn by all, and those 16 and under may ride on sidewalks. Want to know more?

Those with access to DWAN can access BSO 8 on the CFB Shilo homepage. For those without DWAN, we have published the order on the Shilo Community Police Facebook page. Visit www.facebook.com/ShiloCommunityPolice. Lastly, a reminder to give yourself a few extra minutes to commute as the weather starts to get colder. Completely avoidable accidents from uncleared frosted windows occur every fall.

Do not be part of the problem. Safe driving.

Terry Fox run raises more than $2,800

Shilo Stag

Oscar winners rarely offer eloquent speeches when they accept their golden statue — it's all about thanking your agent to the acting coach who helped you at the beginning.

And the Base's annual Terry Fox run is no different. Organizers of the fall event want to offer a big thank-you to Base Fund, SISIP Financial Services, and the Shilo Service Club for their generous donation and support.

With the help of the sponsors, CFB Shilo raised more than $2,800 for the Terry Fox Foundation.

Other businesses that donated items to the overall success of the run include: Applebee's Neighbourhood Grill & Bar; Ashley Furniture Home Store; Booster Juice; Brandon Animal Clinic; Brandon Source for Sports; CAA; Canadian Tire; CANEX; Chatters Salon & Beauty Supply Outlet; Domino's Pizza; Dundee Designs; Esprit Wellness Centre; Forbidden Flavours Shilo; Friends Fur Life Dog Grooming; Maple Leaf Foods; Montana's Cookhouse; Old Dutch Foods; Pantages Salon & Spa; Photography By Dale; Pizza Hut; Reactive Massage Therapy; Rick's Restaurant & Bar; Shilo Automotive; Shilo Country Club; Shilo Inn; Shoppers Mall; Sobey's; The Green Spot; Thunderbird Bowl; Wal-Mart; Westman Communication Group and Wheat City Veterinary Clinic.

Chili cook-off winner wins for second time

Shilo Stag

It's not whether the chili is too hot or lacks the right ingredients when it comes to judging the best chili made by CE staff at CFB Shilo.

It comes down to the overall taste, and this year's winner offered up a dish with a sweet tinge to it which garnered the most votes following the taste-testing.

According to CE organizers, this year's chili cook-off was once again a huge success thanks to all who participated: amazing cooks, eaters and organizers.

And for the second time since its inception, D'Arcy Lilley garnered the most votes from those who sampled the 12 different chili recipes. He earned 119 points, making it a landslide based on the runner-up, Scott Smith, only earning 68 votes. Brad Lyall was just four points back in third, while former winner Maj Reg Sharpe's entry garnered 53 points, good for fourth.

The remaining entries from fifth to 12th included Barry Banman, firehall crew No. 2, MWO Robert Brassington, Gary Burnett, Perry Brykaliuk, Larry Weisgerber, Jackie Pliszka and Environment section.

Besides tantalizing the taste buds, the CE chili cook-off also collected $254.24 — after expenses, buns, butter etc — for the Breast Cancer Foundation. CE will cut them a cheque for $255.
