Howling good time

Get spooked as Halloween hits the Base

By Bruce Peever
 Shilo Stag
 Prepare to be scared out of your wits this weekend as Halloween takes over CFB Shilo.
 First up is a Pumpkin Carving Contest in which kids of all ages can carve up their gourds to win impressive prizes. First place means a $50 CANEX gift card while second and third place will get you $35 and $20 CANEX gift cards respectively. Jack-o'-lanterns can be dropped off at CANEX up until noon on Friday, Oct. 29. Judging this year will be handled by Shilo Stag staff including Sara Cumming and Quinn Roberts.

Those wanting to show off their artistic bent outdoors can still decorate the exterior of their RHU right up to Sunday, Oct. 31. Over the weekend FS&R staff will judge the displays with prizes of $150, $100 and $75 up for grabs.
 New this year is the Haunted House at 12 Citadel Crescent. Prepared by Suzanne and Pte Terry Hanhams and their four children, the house has become a family tradition from previous postings in CFB Gagetown and CFB Borden.
 "We've been doing this every year since the kids were born. As they got older it has been more about the children helping," Suzanne explains.
 Taking over the entire ground floor of their RHU, the Haunted House promises thrills for all ages. Younger children are advised to go through while there's still daylight. Older kids should get a kick out of the light and fog machines which come on after dark. In past years the Hanhams have handed out 500 treat bags.

 "It's always been a great success. This is our first time doing it here. And it is getting a little crowded on the main floor. My kitchen is filled with witches," Suzanne states.
 While originally planned as a five-day fundraiser for the Shilo MFRC Natural Play Space Project, the Haunted House will be open for tours on Halloween night only.

Shoppers Mall go for the shopping stay for the fun

Across Manitoba municipal electors went to the polls on Wednesday, Oct. 27. As the residential area of CFB Shilo is part of the Rural Municipality of Cornwallis, representatives from Wards 5 and 6 would normally be elected to municipal council. In 2010 however, both Ward 5 candidate Kurt Wasserberg and Ward 6 candidate Ward Greer have been acclaimed, thus no need for an election in either ward. Following are profiles of both ward reps.

Experience helps to fill the position of Ward 5 rep

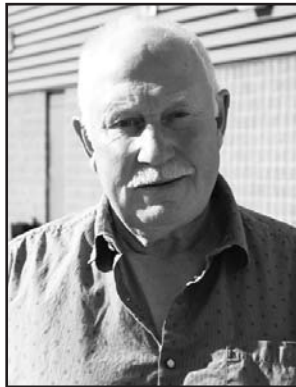

By Bruce Peever
Shilo Stag

A connection to the CFB Shilo community is what helps drive Kurt Wasserberg after he was acclaimed as the Ward 5 representative on Rural Municipality of Cornwallis council.

The 63-year-old, who has been married 43 years to wife Ingrid, is no stranger to the Cornwallis council table. Years ago he served as reeve but later resigned over differences of opinion.

"Cornwallis is not your run-of-the-mill municipality in that you are surrounded by Brandon on three sides. It is sometimes difficult to get the councillors all in agreement. But it does work," he says.

Adding to the mix is the fact CFB Shilo is really part of three rural municipalities — Cornwallis on the west side of Royal Avenue, North Cyprus to the north of the Officer's Mess and South Cyprus to the south. Cornwallis has two council members on Base, Wards 5 and 6, representing those living in the RHUs.

Because Shilo is a military establishment, Wards 5 and 6 do not operate like the rest of Cornwallis. Road maintenance and snow plowing is not a municipal responsibility, however garbage and recycling are. Among the most topical issues is dog control.

"We do have a dog catcher which is under Bylaw Enforcement in Cornwallis. We do have bylaws for how to control dogs on Base. It would be nice if copies of that bylaw was available here so that everyone knew what you can do," he informs.

A native of Germany, Wasserberg was a member of the German Army based at Shilo in the mid-1970s as part of the GATES operation. Following his retirement he drove taxi for Shilo Taxi, ran the Air Shuttle service and for two years, worked for the Commissionaires. Now fully retired, Wasserberg says he can devote his full attention to the RM of Cornwallis.

"You can call me anytime with an issue and if I'm not there, I'll call you right back. Really, I am a community-minded guy. I feel connected to the Base and I am looking forward to coming to Shilo Community Council meetings and working with the community."

A resident of nearby Sprucewoods, Wasserberg can be reached at 763-4357.

Challenges ahead for first time councillor in Ward 6

By Bruce Peever
Shilo Stag

Eager to learn, first time municipal council rep Ward Greer is hoping to make a difference in Ward 6 of the Rural Municipality of Cornwallis.

Husband of Sgt Jennifer Greer who works at the DSG, and father of a 14-year-old daughter and 11-year-old son, Greer took the plunge on advice from his boss, Davis Shelvey who himself was running for a spot in Ward 4. The pair work at Viper Auto Body just past the North Gate.

"Davis mentioned it to me as he is running in Ward 4. I've been thinking about getting involved in the community for a while now. We have been here (Shilo) for just over one year after moving from Killarney," he says.

Admitting he doesn't know much about the position up to this point, Greer said he is looking forward to a information package coming forth from RM of Cornwallis Chief Administrative Officer Donna Anderson. According to her, Ward 6 representation has been missing for some time following the posting of a former councillor.

Because he is new at this kind of thing, Greer said he will be conferring frequently with Ward 5 rep and former Reeve Kurt Wasserberg. Ward 5 is that section of the RHUs located south of Lark Hill Avenue with Ward 6 comprising those residences north. Like the auto body business, people with municipal concerns want answers. Greer says that if it is information that someone wants, he'll make sure to get it.

"It's the same as in the shop — if you don't get back to a customer, you don't get that customer back again," he states.

Noting he does work full time on salary, Greer expects to be available for meetings and other council business during the daytime. On an arrangement worked out with Shelvey, Greer said he can work evenings and weekends at the shop as make up if required.

"I will be at Shilo Community Council meetings as well as Cornwallis council and committee meetings. I am in this for the community," he sums up.

Greer can be reached by cell at 724-6239.

Former soldier's son to tackle Mt. Everest as a Cadet

Army Cadet Warrant Officer Lucas Mayo of Winnipeg is one of 16 Army Cadets selected from across Canada to participate in the Royal Canadian Army Cadet International Expedition in the Mount Everest region of Nepal.

WO Lucas Mayo

Mayo, 18, has been an Army Cadet for five years as a member of the 2701 Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps based at Kapyong Barracks.

"We are all very proud of Warrant Officer Mayo," says Commanding Officer Captain Melanie Turko. "Lucas put in a lot of hard work and dedication to attain this once in a lifetime opportunity."

WO Mayo is following the same big boot steps as his father, Master Corporal Norm Mayo. The senior Mayo used to be a member of the Second Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry stationed at CFB/ASU Shilo.

Mayo departed Winnipeg Oct. 7 and travelled to Toronto to meet with the rest of the expedition members. The cadets will be accompanied on their adventure by four members of the Cadet Instructor Cadre (CIC).

They will begin their journey with an acclimatization day and mountain biking tour of Kathmandu city. The days ahead will have them trek in Lukla and various other locations, participate in a cultural visit to Khumjung and Kunde Sherpa Village, trek to Everest Base Camp, followed by glacier training and white-water rafting on the Trisuli River.

Focus of this expedition will be on high altitude trekking and backpacking and will introduce mountain biking and white-water rafting under the guidance of both CIC officers and guides. Cadets will experience an adventure that is challenging, rewarding and enjoyable. This experience will offer a rich selection of cultural experiences for the cadets.

The Army Cadet Expedition is the premier Army Cadet activity that challenges Army Cadets in Canada to new levels, and is the culmination of at least four years of training, requiring a superior level of fitness and maturity. This international expedition provides cadets with the opportunity to exercise self-reliance, leadership and the spirit of adventure. The expedition will also challenge cadets individually and as a group to improve their skills in decision-making and problem solving, teamwork and co-operation, communications, resourcefulness and time management.

The Cadet Program is a national program for youth aged 12 to 18. It is sponsored by the Department of National Defence in partnership with three civilian organizations: the Navy League, Army Cadet League, and Air Cadet League.

It's flu season...

Get the shot, not the flu!

And protect yourself against H1N1 flu, too.

For this year, the annual seasonal flu shot is available to all Manitobans at no charge. It will offer protection against H1N1 flu and two additional seasonal flu strains.

An annual flu shot is especially important for those at increased risk of serious illness from the flu, their caregivers and close contacts.

This includes:

- seniors age 65 or older
- children age six months to four years
- those with chronic illness
- pregnant women
- health care workers and first responders
- individuals of Aboriginal ancestry
- people who are severely overweight or obese

If you are 65 or older or have a chronic illness, you should also get a pneumo shot. One pneumo shot may give you a lifetime of protection.

Letter to the Editor

CDS message on Russel Williams

Dear Editor,

1. On 21 Oct 10, Mr. Russell Williams, former Commander of 8 Wing, was sentenced to two concurrent terms of life in prison with no chance of parole for 25 years for the first-degree murders of Cpl Marie France Comeau and Mrs. Jessica Lloyd.

2. The crimes committed by Mr. Williams are deeply upsetting to us all. Over the last few months, I have spoken with many of you in town halls across the country and on missions overseas. Like all Canadians, you and I have been shocked and repulsed by the crimes he committed.

3. During these conversations, you expressed your sympathy and compassion for the victims and the families affected by this terrible tragedy. I also listened to Canadian Forces personnel of all ranks as they expressed their bewilderment and anger at the betrayal of our institutional ethos of truth, duty, and valour. Because of his heinous crimes and his subsequent criminal conviction, Mr. Williams has lost the privilege of calling himself a member of the CF community.

4. With the conviction and sentencing completed, and following my recommendation, the Governor General has revoked his commission, an extraordinary and severe decision that may constitute a first of its kind in Canadian history.

5. Further, the following actions will now be taken:

- Stripping Mr. Williams of his medals
- Termination and recovery of his pay from the date of arrest
- Denial of severance pay; and
- His prompt release from the CF under "service misconduct" – which is the most serious release item possible.

6. As a consequence of his release from the CF for 'service misconduct' and of the revocation of his commission, Mr. Williams no longer possesses a rank as a member of the CF.

7. I wish to point out that under the CF Superannuation Act, there are no grounds to revoke his pension and a court martial would not have any impact on these accrued benefits.

8. Some have questioned why Mr. Williams has not also been charged under the military justice system. I believe we need to understand why this is so. This is because there is no jurisdiction under the code of service discipline to try persons charged with murder where those murders took place in Canada. Mr. Williams was therefore tried and convicted of all of these 88 charges under the Criminal Code of Canada by a civilian court. Additionally there will be no further court martial on these matters because the National Defence Act specifically prevents an individual from being tried by court martial where the offence or any other substantially similar offence arising out of the same underlying facts have been previously dealt with by a civilian court. This basic principle sometimes known as 'double jeopardy' is fundamental within our civilian and military justice system. With his current convictions and sentence to life imprisonment justice has already been served.

9. Now more than ever, this is a time for us to come together and heal as a community. We are doing everything we can to assist those in need of counselling or other support. I urge anyone who is feeling upset or concerned to seek assistance and to talk about it. While doing so, we will not forget Cpl Marie France Comeau, Mrs. Jessica Lloyd, and the many other victims and their families who will remain in our thoughts and prayers forever.

10. It is time to move forward, be strong and proud because the actions of Mr. Williams are not reflective of the values of the men and women who serve in the CF, whose integrity and self sacrifice come through loud and clear in words and deeds each day. Whether helping Canadians at home, abroad, or providing the hope of a better future to the people of Haiti, Africa or Afghanistan, I have seen our ethos of truth, duty, and valour at work and making a difference in the world. You have reason to hold your head high. Be strong and proud! I am proud to be your Chief of the Defence Staff.

Sincerely,
General W.J. Natynczyk

Winning trebuchet design catapults EME to the top

By Sgt Wesley Baker

What a better way to get back to the basics and motivate personnel than by holding a challenge in typical Artillery fashion, thus the dawn of the First Medieval Weaponry Contest began.

The contest was simple: each battery had to build a maximum of three trebuchets (catapult), one per troop and each capable of launching a projectile — the size of a tennis ball — as far as possible with as much accuracy as possible. There were a few other technical limitations that I do not want to mention as it may cause a dispute, that some of the trebuchets might have been pushing the limits of their design.

At first interest was confined to a few volunteers who diligently researched and silently constructed their trebuchet in secret, but after the first display of launching the tennis balls it seemed the interest exploded. Everyone had an idea of how to improve their designs in order to wipe the floor with their opposition and so embellishments on their progress became greatly exaggerated trying to psych out the competition.

It will not be said that EME will be out done when it comes to ingenuity, motivation, and technical skill. Through research and the imaginative ideas of the light maintenance troop (LMT), spawned of the ultimate of trebuchet design and what emerged was the Floating Arm Trebuchet.

On Sept. 14 the judgement of who had the best would come clear and the victor would lay claim to the coveted prize of the winner of the first Medieval Weaponry Contest.

Although all batteries had excellent designs and construction, it would be LMT (aka The EMEs) that would reign supreme and unveil the engineering marvel that astounded all that observed the competition.

They all laughed as we motioned them to move out of the way, they all laughed as we corrected for wind and distance, but the looks on their faces as they watched with complete and utter amazement that a tennis ball flew 60 meters on our first attempt was priceless.

To the sceptics who shouted, "It was a fluke!", we launched our second ball 70 meters on the second attempt "just to rub it in."

The second portion of the contest was accuracy. The range was moved to 25 meters (the longest throw from the trebuchet with the shortest distance). Little did they know that LMT had already accounted for such events and developed a firing table and knew exactly how far their ball would travel with different weights and drops from different heights.

Again EME reigned supreme, as we raced to the 25 meter line, dropped 20 pounds of counterweight, adjusted for range and hit the target at first attempt and secured our place as the champions of the First Medieval Weaponry Contest.

Yes, it was a great day had by all and when the next challenge comes we all know that all bets are off and LMT will have to defend its title. But until then, LMT will proudly hold and display the trophy in their Troop Lines.

Sgt Wesley Baker is with IC Wpns, 1RCHA.

Scholarship for military families

University of Winnipeg President and Vice-Chancellor Dr. Lloyd Axworthy, in conjunction with TELUS Vice-President Michael Sangster, have announced a new partnership and creation of two new important funds.

Special guest Gen. (ret.) Rick Hillier was in attendance as Sangster announced creation of a $15,000 TELUS Military Families Scholarship Fund to support military members and their families. The scholarship will be awarded each May to assist a select number of sons and daughters of Canadian Forces personnel to attend the University of Winnipeg.

Manitobans can contribute to the fund by donating at www.uwinnipegfoundation.ca/choose.

"TELUS is as committed to the military community in Manitoba as they have shown with other military communities across Canada," said Hillier. "Establishing a scholarship specifically for students of military families right here in Manitoba will go a long way to helping those who sacrifice so much for our country, and I'm proud to be associated with a company such as TELUS that continually takes a leadership role in corporate philanthropy."

In addition, TELUS announced creation of a $150,000 TELUS Technology Fund that will enable UW to invest in leading technology from TELUS to support the university's operation. The fund will grow as the relationship between UW and TELUS grows, and will significantly enhance the university's Information and Communications Technologies (ICT) infrastructure.

"This partnership builds important new bridges between UWinnipeg and TELUS," said Axworthy. "Through TELUS' leading position on the national and international stage, we'll gain important insight into cutting-edge technology, and how industry is leveraging the rapid advances in technology and communications to be effective and efficient. In turn, TELUS will have access to the University's established research capabilities and emerging expertise in collaborative technologies founded on cutting-edge technology donated to UWinnipeg earlier this year by Cisco Systems, Inc."

Axworthy also announced plans to further enhance access to education at the University of Winnipeg for military personnel. This would include recognizing prior service and previous training as credit towards a bachelor's degree, as well as enhanced counseling and career services. UWinnipeg's Faculty of Business and Economics already had a partnership with the Canadian Air Force for pilots by offering a major in Aviation Management studies. More details on this plan will be announced soon.

Operation Runway...more than just a fashion show

By Christine Helgason

Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to conduct a daring rescue of your clothes closet and specifically your work wardrobe.

The following tools and equipment will be made available to you to assist in completing this mission: Le Chateau, Salon Serenity, CANEX, BronZe BodieZ Tanning Salon, Ricki's, Designer Lounge, Suzy Shier, Style File, Pennington's, Avon, Additionelle, Marie Eve Jewellery Designs, Giant Tiger, Everyday Entree, Suzanne's, New Beginnings, Reitman's, and Mary Kay.

The need for secrecy on this mission is low – tell everyone you know about your rescue operation and have them assist you as covert operatives. Expectations of hand to hand combat are non-existent although there may be pushing and shoving over the fabulous door prizes.

Your mission will commence on Friday, November 5 at 7:00 pm. Geographical location of your mission is the El Prado Club in Shilo, Manitoba at N 49° 48' and W 99° 38'.

Necessary documents

(tickets) will be available at the Shilo MFRC for $10 – if you are unable to get to the MFRC prior to your mission, documents can be held for you by calling our undercover agent at 765-3000 ext 3352, code words "Operation Runway".

Upon completion of your mission, you will be rewarded with finger foods to replenish your energy in preparation for your next mission.

Good luck. This message will self-destruct by November 5.

Christine Helgason is the Employment and Education Coordinator at the MFRC.

Saying thanks with ice cream

By Garry Reid

The MFRC held their annual Ice Cream Social Oct 4. Forty-seven people participated in the event, which was held to recognize and recruit volunteers, as well as to kick off National Week of the Family.

MFRC staff dished out ice cream and the participants splashed on their favourite toppings including Oreo cookies pieces, M& Ms, caramel and fudge sundae topping, cherries, whipping cream, and bananas. Most people used all the toppings.

It was a great evening to meet new people, sit and relax with some dessert, and find out what opportunities exist for volunteering.
